LEMON GROVE REVIEW

Vol. 20, No. 30 | Lemon Grove, California | Thursday, February 1, 1968 | Phone 469-0101 | Ten Cents

The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

This Ceiling Needs a Pillar—You!

One of the few tx issues the Lemon Grove Review supports is the elementary school override tax which comes to a vote Tuesday. For this election the polling places will be most of the schools and the polls will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In this instance, the issue is not more tax nor less tax. The elementary school district pleads for a continuation for five years of the same tax — or less.

Five years ago the district asked for tax ceiling of $1.99. This tax expires in June. Unless the continuation of this rate is approved, the rate will be reduced to $1.35. With the reduction will go all the things the taxpayers of the district—through the school board — said the youngsters should have.

These things will be dropped because the rate would fall back to the legislated rate of $1.35.

This is unrealistic because the same tax was $1.40 in 1951. Try buying bread and hamburger at 1951 prices today and you'll get the idea of need for passing the issue.

The money generated from this tax is used only for operating the schools. No capital purchases are made with it. As a matter of fact, this money, by law, must be kept separate from the money used to make capital purchases.

Since this money pays for programs beyond the barebones educational demands, and for teachers to train youngsters in the programs, and for supplies and equipment needed in the programs, it naturally follows that the kiddies would be the sufferers if the issue were not fully supported.

Some misconceptions that may exist are answered here:

Override does not mean high school costs

The February 6 election is not a bond election

Approval of the issue does not change your taxes up or down.

Passage permits the district to only continue the same ceiling that has been in force for the past five years.

Passage does not make certain that the district will utilize the taxing limit. Aiding state legislation that would increase the district income would reduce the tax rate.

Failure of the election would drop the district's operational income below the point of functionalism. The loss would be the kids' loss.

If legislation is passed this year for easing the school tax burden, school officials have stated that the ceiling tax would be reduced.

Vote yes Feb. 6.

Babies By Federal Edict?

One-time Nobel Prize-winner, William Bradford Shockley, Stanford University physicist, has proposed temporary sterilization of all women. He would require government approval before each baby.

With that kind of thinking he might win a post as head of a new federal cabinet.

Hmmm. Wonder what they'd name the cabinet?

Life of a Weekly Editor

If we attend a meeting we've been nosy. If we don't, we're not interested.

If we write an in-depth story, it's too long. If we condense one, it's incomplete.

If we take sides on an issue we're prejudiced. If we don't, we're cowards.

If our clothes are clean and pressed, we think we're big shots. If they aren't, we look like movieland newspapermen.

If we've been around a while, it's time for a change. If we don't stop and talk (deadlines, you know) we're too big for our britches. If we do, that's all we've got to do anyway.

If we ask for advice, we're incompetent, if we don't we're know-it-alls.

If we make a mistake we hear about it for weeks. If we don't, we never hear about it.

If we express an opinion, we want to run the show. If we don't, how were we ever raised?

If we misspell your name, you never forget it. If we don't you didn't read that story.

Communication Gap In Education Is Told By Mich. State Prof.

Dr. Everett M. Rogers, Michigan State University professor, told the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District staff last week about the communication gap that exists between research educators and the teachers in the classroom.

Rogers theme "Planned

DR. EVERETT ROGERS

Strategy For Change" pointed out the need for the creation of an organization that will fill the communication lag.

He said, "Communications break-down as an organization grows old. Only by continued assessment, evaluation, and planning can an organization be self-renewing and remain alive and vital."

The group was also told that teachers should be trained in the understanding and application of education research.. He felt that teachers should seek the aid of specialists for solutions.

He pointed out to the educators that there is a need for the curriculum staff of teachers to draw closer the identifying needs of aiding the classroom instructor with new techniques.

Dr. Rogers is a consultant for the U. S. Agencies For Inernational Development and the Ford Foundation. He divides his time between teaching at Michigan State, and serving, overseas, assisting educational agencies in the improvement of their educational practice, according to Glenn E. Murdock, superintendent of schools. He also serves as consultant in the field of communication.

His visit was cosponsored by the San Diego County Department of Education and the La Mesa-Spring Valley Board of Education.

In La Mesa, Dr. Rogers met with the curriculum and instructional materials staffs and also addressed Modified Staff, a district organization of 67 administrators and teachers.

Special guests at the latter meeting were junior high vice principals and counselors; members of the exxecutive boards of the La Mesa-Spring Valley Teachers Association, the La Mesa-Spring Valley Classroom Teachers Committee; and members of the La Mesa-Spring Valley Instruction Committee, the Negotiating Council and the Board of Education.

Bogus Phone Calls Rise

WASHINGTON — Abusive telephone calling is a growing menace in San Diego and nationally, Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, testified Wednesday. He said a federal law is needed to supplement state statutes in cracking down on "this vicious practice."

In a statement to the House Communications Subcommittee, Van Deerlin said that an average of 58,000 such calls a month were reported nationally last year to the Bell System telephone companies, a 13 per cent increase over the 1966 average of 51,000.

"The figures, while ominous enough, don't begin to tell the full story of just how widespread this vicious practice has become," Van Deerlin continued.

Telephone company officials believe that at least 10 obscene or threatening calls go unreported for every one that is disclosed. Thus the true monthly totals could well approach a half million or more.

In San Diego area alone, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company has advised Van Deerlin, more than 800 such calls are placed each month.

The San Diego Congressman appeared before the House subcommittee in support of his bill to provide federal penalties for persons convicted of making abusive calls across state lines or within the District of Columbia. An identical bill was passed last year by the Senate.

School Project Here Educates Indian Kids

A village in India is "on the breakthrough" because of a project of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis club, Hal Brogan, principal of Lemon Grove's Palm Junior high school said Wednesday.

Brogan, reporting to the Kiwanis club, said that $1,000 raised by the group through its annual pancake breakfast, is providing five classrooms for 400 students at Gundugollanu, West Godavari District, of Andhra Pradesh, India.

The Kiwanis club agreed to provide a school-to-school partnership with Bhimadole following a meeting with a Peace Corp representative in Lemon Grove.

He told the club that it would take $1,000 to provide the five classroom facility in the little agricultural village. The villagers met Peace Corps requirements. These requirements are strict. They are: 1. demonstrate an ability to work in a community development; 2. secure a suitable lot and clear land title; 3. obtain sound construction plans; 4. provide 25 percent of the total investment; 5. agree that none of the school funds will be used to pay labor; 6. arrange for teachers; 7. realize that no further funds will be forthcoming from the sponsoring USA group, and 8. give evidence that the political and social climate is stable enough to permit completion of the project..

The Kiwanis club chose Palm Junior high school to represent the group in the school-to-school project.

Brogan said he had been in communication with Mrs. Gail Miller, a Peace Corp volunteer in Gundugollanu, had been corresponding with him since August when the project got under way. Pictures were exchanged with Brogan sending a Palm Junior high year book and various pictures taken on the school grounds and in the business district of Lemon Grove.

Gundugollanu, he said, is typical of the villages in that area. About 80 percent of all the men and women work in the fields. The entire income is related to agriculture but they raised $300 to start the project. The new school replaces one which is small, overcrowded and dirty and has dirt floors and walls. The roof is palm thatched..

Funds, Brogan said, had been released to the village in that all criteria had been met plus a final one — that the school's foundation must be in before the funds could be released,

He said that more correspondence and more pictures would be exchanged as the building in Gundugollanu is completed and thus the youngsters start to school.

Landscape Bootleggers Milk Californians

At least 12,000 California homeowners paid an exorbitant price in 1967 for the landscaping of a yard or the trimming of a tree.

In many instances their heartaches were compounded by slovenly work or unfinished work or even lawsuits.

They were victimized by "bootleg contractors" in the landscape, gardening and tree trimming field who go door-to-door with a grand spiel that promises to beautify a yard on a legitimate contract basis.

Beware of these unscrupulous operators, Paul Walker, San Diego area licensing chairman for the California Landscape Contractors Association, warned today.

Insist in seeing a state landscape contractor's license, Walker said, before signing any contract over $100. No other kind of license tenders a suitable guarantee.

To alert homeowners further, Walker described how the glib bootlegger usually functions:

"Most of them conduct door-to-door sales campaigns, particularly in new tracts," he said. "They often seek to enhance their pitch by displaying handsome company advertisements in a telephone book or newspaper classified section.

"They then persuade the homeowner to sign a contract under which they promise to perform certain landscaping work for a certain price.

"Next they will send workers to the home and make a big show toward keeping the agreement. But long before the job is completed they may try to extract a large payment on the contract. When the homeowner complies they quickly disappear.

"Or sometimes they take other devious tacks. They may fail to pay employees who have done the work or the nursery from which they obtained plants and shrubbery.

"When the bootlegger vanishes the homeowner becomes liable. The suppliers and the bilked employees may sue for payment — and collect."

These unlicensed landscapers call themselves everything from contractors to architects to exterior decorators to tree surgeons, Walker said.

Demand that state license, he reminded. Disregard even any "city license," for this normally amounts to nothing more than a local business permit and requires little authentication to obtain.

Contractors licensed by the state, Walker said, are required to post a large bond protecting the homeowner from liens and suits. They also must carry accident insurance which protects homeowners if a worker is injured on their property.

Two-headed Monster On Show At The Zoo

A two-headed monster is on display today in the San Diego Zoo's reptile house. Named "Dupley Duplex II," the monster is actually a juvenile California Kingsnake—measuring only 11 inches long..

"But there are no two ways about it," said Charles Shaw, curator of reptiles "Dudley has twin heads and looks pretty weird." He said that even though such a snake is "double trouble," the Zoo is proud to display another Dudley Duplex.

"It was in November of 1953 that 'Dudley the First' came to us as a callow youth approximately 12 inches in length, and became a national celebrity," shaw explained.. "And he set a longevity record of six and one-half years." The reported life span of a captive two-headed snake had been only one year.

Shaw said that no adult two-headed snake has ever been found.

Dudley the Second was found on the beach at Del Mar, California on December 30, 1967, and was brought to the zoo. It is estimated that he was hatched during the fall.

Two-headed snakes are accidents of nature and are probably not uncommonly born or hatched in the wild.

Study Links Smoking To Personality Traits

BERKELEY—Adults who do not smoke were usually self-controlled as adolescents, lacked strong aggressions, and had modest views of themselves.

Heavy smokers now in their middle years showed, when they were teenagers, little "need for achievement," a tendency to escape unpleasant situations, and overt aggressive behavior.

These profiles—with individual exxceptions—are sketched by a sociologist at the Berkeley campus of the University of California in the current issue of "Social Science and Medicine," an international scientific journal published in Britain.

Professor John A. Clausen, associated with the Institute of Human Development at UC-Berkeley, analyzes data based on studies begun in 1931 of approximately 200 Oakland junior high school boys and girls. Follow-up surveys occurred at several intervals, the latest being when the subjects were nearing their mid-forties.

their future depends on a

YES VOTE..... ON TAX OVERRIDE

FEB. 6

NO INCREASE IN AUTHORIZED MAXIMUM TAX RATE BY YES VOTE

Continuation of the present tax override is essential to maintaining a good, well balanced educational program for the children of La Mesa-Spring Valley School District.

Children are in school only once — there are no second chances for them to get the education that they are supposed to get this year. Let's be sure that the good basic education our children are receiving is not curtailed.

Passage of the tax override on February 6, 1968 would simply continue the present authorized maximum for another five years.

Good intentions do not count for children nor parents. Your vote will!

Below is a partial list of La Mesa-Spring Valley residents and organizations favoring a YES vote on tax override.

Drizzles Raise Rain Total

The rain reporter for this publication was sitting in the lobby of the U.S. National bank Friday. Through the front window he could see the sun shining. Through the back window, not more than 100 feet to the north, he could see the drizzle falling from an overcast sky.

So it was in the east county Friday and Saturday.

The rainfall may have been more or less than the official reading of .21 of an inch but at the local fire station, where the readings are taken, that is what was written in the official records.

The sprinkles that fell at the fire station brought the season total to 7.22 inches.

Last year the season total to date was 9.94.

The rain season starts July 1 each year.

TOPPER'S ANSWERS CONSUMER PANEL QUESTIONS

Q. CAN YOU REALLY SELL GOOD FOOD AT YOUR PRICES?

A. Yes. our food is the same good quality used in any good restaurant. It is also fresh and carefully handled according to strict rules for all TOPPER'S STEAKHOUSES. Your chances of being dissatisfied are no greater than at the most expensive restaurants.

Q. THEN HOW CAN YOU AFFORD TO SELL FOR SO MUCH LESS THAN OTHERS?

A. Several reasons. First, we're not greedy. Also we don't use waitresses. They add 20% or more to the menu price (and cost almost that much again to tip). We sell popular high-volume dinners and depend on a large turnover.

Q. WELL, DO CUSTOMERS REALLY SAVE ANYTHING?

A. EMPHATICALLY, YES! 25%-35% on waitresses and tipping, half-price for children, and what's more important, you pay only for what you eat, not for soup, salad or dessert you don't eat. Many customers claim it isn't any more expensive than eating home.

Golfing Is No Easy Task

A pro's golfing life isn't all sunshine, friendly fairways and six-figured prize money.

It just looks that way, especially to the 40-million or so stay-at-home duffers who follow the annual PGA tournament tour from the living room side of a tlevision tube.

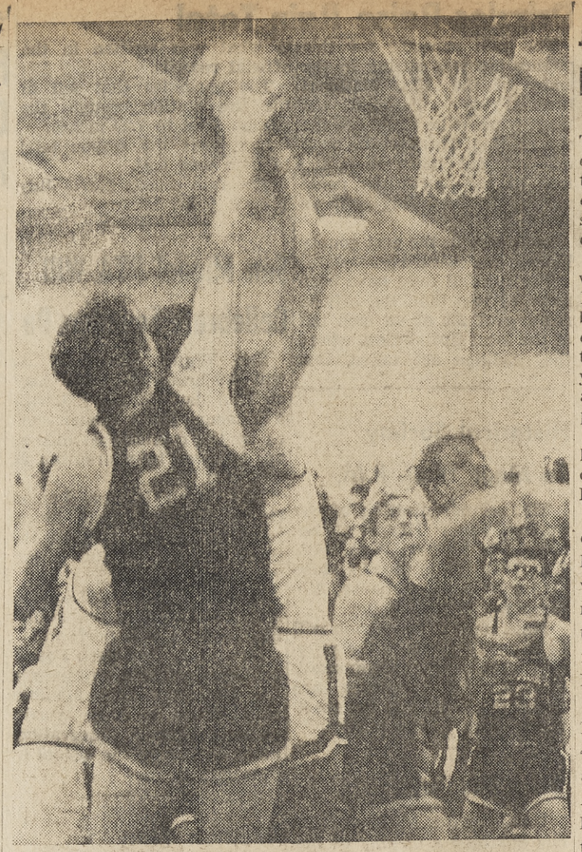
Contrary to the popular image, but sworn to by a sampling of golfdom's greats, life as a pro is more often grind than gravy.

Even for such top line players as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Johnny Pott, it means long months on the road and a seemingly endless line of crowded hotels, blah meals and big bills.

While it's still a far cry from slugging it out in a salt mine, all of the top pros admit that life on the circuit can be rough, both physically and mentally.

But there are high points on the tour, when the living turns easy and the creature comforts are as real in reality as they are through the lens of a television camera.

Such big money tournaments as the Crosby, the Bob Hope Desert Classic and the new Andy Williams San Diego Open, among others, are cases in point. To woo the name players, it takes more than a bulging prize purse.



OUT OF REACH: A Grossmont High School basketball defender can't quite reach the ball. That was the story of the game as Mount Miguel crushed Grossmont 95-37, posting win number 20 Friday night.

Jim Kemp Will Run In SDiego Games

Jim Kemp, who stunned Tommie Smith in last weekend's Los Angeles Invitational, has signed a blank to oppose "Tommie-Jet" in the second annual San Diego Indoor Games.

The big pre-Olympic test will be held Saturday night, Feb. 3, on the brand new banked boards at the San Diego Sports Arena. Kemp won the National AAU Indoor 600-yard title last winter and is a former NCAA 449 champion.

It was the first time Smith had lost a 440 indoors and one of the few times he has lost a contest for a few years.

Smith is the defending 440 champion, having run 48.2 last February. He holds the world indoor record at 46.2, made on a larger track than the conventional 11-laps-to-the-mile course such as San Diego's.

San Diego State's classy Bruce Hafer is also in the 440 field. Tickets for the meet are available at the Sports Arena and outlets over San Diego county. Phone information may be had at 224-4171.

Copenhagen was founded by a bishop, Absalon, of Reskilde.

GENERATOR CHECK: Lemon Grove firefighters Leonard Knight and Keith McPike, engineer, check out their 4,500 watt generator used for light at night fires and as a power booster. The department holds periodic checks on equipment as well as instruction periods in equipment usage.

Matadors Slam Helix, 86-57;

Mount Miguel High dumped Helix 86-57 Tues. afternoon as they moved into undisputed first place in the Grossmont League play.

The Matadors paced by Mike Ela with 26 points had the Highlanders 38-25 by half time.

Action was cold during the first quarter as Miguel stars pushed 25 points through the hoop while holding the Helix five to 8 points.

The explosive Matadors halted Helix who had won nine out of their last 10 games and eight in a row. The Matadors continued their win streak to 21 games.

The Matadors with the backcourt combination of Ken Greenman and Blake Mathews and the work on the boards by Mike Ela and Ken Barstow held the Scots' top scorer to 14 points.

Both clubs were 6-0 in league play before they tangled with Helix going down to the Matadors in a non league game earlier in the season.

Mount Miguel closed out the afternoon with a team shooting mark of 49 per cent, just below their seasonal norm. Helix meanwhile was also having a fair day by pumping a 44 per cent average but was held back with 17 turnovers while bringing the ball down court.

Ray Gayhart was the Scots' top scorer with 14. Backing up the Miguel attack was Ken Greenman with 21, Blake Mathews with 17 and eKn Barstow hitting doubles with a total of 12 points.

Ground Hog Day Is Tomorrow

Tomorrow will mark the day that the world's most unreliable weather forcaster will take to doing his only day of work.

American folklore says that the ground hog, or woodchuck, sticks his head out of his home in the ground to take his first good look at things since the start of winter.

If he sees his shadow he crawls back into his hold and which would mean that there will be six more weeks of winter weather.

If he doesn't, he will stay out of his hole indicating that spring weather is on the way.

On the whole the Weather Bureau is more reliable than the average ground hog, but the eyes of the nation still focus on the annual event.

TV Special Will Hit Smut

"In A Plain Brown Wrapper," an in-depth look at the multi-tentacled world of pornography, will be telecast on KOGO-TV Thursday, February 8th at 9:30 p.m.

The 30-minute color special spotlights the spread of pornography to virtually every level of our society not only under the guise of a plain brown mailing wrapper but in its many other ugly forms.

"In A Plain Brown Wrapper" stresses the concern we should have about our children's exposure to pornography. California has been called a center for the distribution of smut-oriented materials in the United States.

Even Governor Reagan has admitted that California is the smut capital of the nation. Further, it is estimated that the pornographic industry grosses 19-million dollars annually on a wholesale basis in this state.

The KOGO-TV special points up the fact that censorship is a difficult companion to a democratic society. Thus, the battle goes on in San Diego, in California and throughout the nation to preserve our freedoms yet control the spread of pornography and similar evils in our society; particularly as they involve minors.

VOTE YES

...especially now, when their education is so important!

LEMON GROVE STUDENTS NEED YOUR SUPPORT... AT THE POLLS ON TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6

The issue is NOT A TAX INCREASE . . . a majority of YES votes will simply MAINTAIN THE PRESENT TAX CEILING OF $1.99 per $100 assessed valuation, which has assured Lemon Grove children an excellent education for the past five years.

The present school tax ceiling, voted in 1963, will expire under present law on June 30 of this year UNLESS THE VOTERS CONTINUE THE $1.99 RATE AT THE POLLS ON FEBRUARY 6.

If the voters do not endorse this election, the tax rate would drop down to $1.35, and our school district would lose $200,000 a year in operating funds. Our schools and students would be hurt.

Loss of $200,000 annually for the education of our children could mean the loss of 20 or more teachers, along with their supplies and equipment. This is equivalent to the staff and teaching facilities of an entire elementary school!

Or loss of $200,000 annually by our school district could mean cancelling many vital services, including summer school, school nurses, bus transportation, and library services. Again, it could mean loss of junior high programs, including band, orchestra, libraries, language and science labs, and art, shop, and homemaking classes.

Loss of a substantial part of current school revenue would inevitably mean a lowering of educational standards. To give our children less education at a time when this technological, computerized age demands more and better education would be a denial of opportunity for our youth, even a denial of survival.

THIS IS NOT A TIME TO RETRENCH! We demand more and more of our schools; we have no alternative. But it would be absurd to expect more and then withdraw support. A YES vote on February 6 will guarantee our children's future.

Jim Utt To Try For 9th

Congressman James B. Utt today in Washington reconfirmed his intention to campaign for his ninth consecutive term in the U. S. House of Representatives.

The 68-year-old Republican Representative for Orange and San Diego counties 5 District is now in his 16th year in Congress. He is third ranking member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, which last week turned back the Administration's demands for a surtax for the third time.

Utt also represents his fellow Republican California Congressmen on the Committee on Committees, a select body making appointments to all House Committees.

"There has never been any doubt that I could orwould seek re-election this year," Utt said. "However, perfectly normal concern arose when I suffered a mild heart attack last fall, and I cannot adequately express my gratitude for the thoughtfulness and kindness shown me by so many friends and constituents."

"Having a complete bill of health from the Capitol Physician and having returned to full activity in Washington and this district these past three months should, I believe, properly lay to rest any lingering questions," Utt said.

10 Bucks Buys Street Sign

SAN DIEGO (CNA)— Residents on non-maintained county roads can now have street signs erected by the county (road) engineering department for $10 if the road meets certain criteria.

The Board of Supervisors on Tuesday approved the suggestion of County Engineer David K. Speer that county work crews make the service available where the non maintained road is open to and is used by the public and where the right of way has been accepted by the county.

Speer said the standard white on blue county identification sign would be placed where the non-maintained road intersects a maintained road.

The $10, Speer said, will about cover the cost of the sign and installation in most cases. The county orders many signs at intervals of about four months and gets a much better price than private individuals could.

Speer said the county gets many road sign requests and could easily spend $10 merely informing a citizen that the county did not install such signs.

How do you own a stack of Savings Bonds when you're older?

Start young.

Start small, if you want to, but start steady. The important thing is to have a regular program of setting something aside every payday.

What's most important: it's never too early to begin.

You say that takes more will power than you can muster up on a regular basis? Then use the easy, automatic way: join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

This way your employer saves your money for you—puts it toward the purchase of a U. S. Savings Bond.

Pretty soon you won't even miss the money. In fact, you'll probably forget how fast your savings are growing.

Here's a for-instance: just $4.33 a week adds up to the $18.75 you need to buy a $25 Bond every month. That's $300, maturity value, a year. Not bad for a former spendthrift! What's more, those few dollars you're tucking away to grow will be working all the time to help keep our country strong and free.

So start now, start young, building up the savings that count so much later on. Join the Payroll Savings Plan before next payday.

Learn Spanish the Easy Way

Hardison's Telespanish

by James Hardison

Is it true that Spanish verbs ending in "o" are first person verbs Yes, verbs that end in "o" are first person verbs. The subject for this type verb is "yo" (I). Sometimes the subject "yo" precedes the verbs when they end in "o" and other times it does not.

The verb "voter" may be changed to a first person verb by removing the "ar" ending and replacing it with the letter "o" which produces the verb "voto" (I vote). For emphasis, the subject "yo" (I) may be placed before the verb resulting in the expression "yo voto," (I vote).

Another example may be seen in the verb "usar" (to use). Replace the "ar" ending of this verb with the letter "o" and the results will be "uso" (I use). The subject "yo" (I) may be placed before this verb and construct the phase "Yo uso" (I use). In either case, the subject will be "Yo" (I), whether it is written in or not..

In the verb "comprar" (to buy), the "ar" ending may be replaced by the letter "o" to form the word "compro" (I buy). See how many "ar" ending verbs you can find in your Spanish dictionary. Then replace the "ar" ending with "o" to form the first person.

Today's practice phases have some verbs that end in "o." Read them over and then practice saying them with the recorded voice when you dial 276-2762 on your telephone. The recorded voice will say each word individually and pause for you to say the word. The voice will then say the complete phrase and pause for you to say the phrase..

IMPORTANT PHRASES

Say "Yo compro ropa." (yoh KOHM-proh ROH-pah) for "I buy clothes."

Say "Yo uso jabon." (Yoh OO-soh HAH-bohn) for "I use soap."

USEFUL PHRASES

Say "Yo siempre voto." (Yoh see-EHM-preh VOH-toh) for "I always vote."

Say "Yo preparo la sopa." (Yoh preh-PAH-roh la SOH-pah) for "I prepare the soup."

OTHER PHRASES

Say "Yo estudio espanol." (Yo eh-STOO-dee-oh eh-SPAHN-YOHL) for "I study Spanish."

Say "Yo hablo un poco." yoh AHB-loh oon POH-koh) for "I speak a little."

Computer Expert Quits Craft For Fixing, Teaching Motorbikes

by Vern Mathews

(Editor's Note: The subject of this feature is a college math graduate with an MA degree. He gave up a secure post as a computer programmer expert to become a motorbike grease-monkey. He asked Reporter Mathews not to use his true name — probably because he may go back into the field of electronics engineering some day)

It's a big jump from running a motorcycle to running a computer. It may be just as big a leap and certainly more startling to jump back again. A local motorbike expert has done both, and a few more surprising things besides.

There in the shop, in the 8400 block on Broadway in Lemon Grove, talk was just getting around to big-bore bikes, for example, when Tom Ketchum's attention began to wander. Clearly, his mind was not on BSAs, Triumphs or big Harleys. He was a little worried, he finally admitted, about the gas engine class he teaches in Tijuana once or twice each week. He needs a discarded engine, like a lawnmower engine, a little one that can be made to run. And he needs it badly.

Right now the student in Tijuana, a group of 12-14 year old Mexican kids, are learning the craft with worn-out hand tools on an engine that won't run. Missing is something vital like a crankshaft or piston.

SPEAKS NO SPANISH

But the lack of an engine hasn't been the only obstacle. Tom speaks no Spanish. His pupils speak no English... How is top dead center described in sign language? It hasn't been easy. But a new boy joined the class now, a boy who speaks English and interprets for class and teacher. This piece of good luck has made Tom's teaching task—he does it without pay—a possible task instead of an impossible one.

Outside the shop, on Broadway, a rider and passenger pull up on a big bike that's leaking a little oil. Tom fixes it up just as another machine coasts in silently, out of gas. The rider looks disgusted and faintly embarrassed. With fuel in the tank he waves thanks and takes off.

CROSS COUNTRY TRIP

Tom returns to the shop to tell of riding cross-country, as a teenager, from Minnesota to California on an ancient belt-driven Cleveland motorcycle. It wouldn't have been so bad if he hadn't kept running into damp weather. This made the Cleveland's belt slip, leaving it stalled alongside the road until dry.

Another trip, resulting from an argument and one-dollar wager, was a jaunt from California to New York City and back on a tiny 50 c.c. machine that he cruised at 22 MPH. It took sixteen days travel time with time out to work here and there along the way.

The ride seemed to take forever, he says, and he found himself falling asleep on the move. This landed him in a New Mexico ditch once, where a big freight truck overtook and literally blew him off the road with air turbulence. Nothing broken, just bruises. He won the argument; collected two dollars.

He made a trip to Mexico City on a little 90 c..c. bike. This was the worst. Water was very scarce and the frightful things that accompany lack of sanitation in inland Mexico beset him. His one-phrase comment: Don't do it.

GOES TO WAR

In the middle of WW II while he was still in his teens, he left the old Cleveland to go into the army where he served, six years, nine months and one day.

ATTENDS COLLEGE

He might have been expected to get back to the world of motorcycles then, but went to San Francisco State instead. It took five years or so, he says, to win a bachelors degree in science and, from the University of California, a master's degree in mathematics.

Why math, why not engineering if he likes engines all that much? Engineering's too hard, too many tough courses.

A master's in math opens a lot of doors, of course, and it opened the doors of Cal's radiation lab in this instance where Tom tells of spending two years in computers as a systems programmer.. The highlight here wasn't the salary, which was high, but a spare-time math problem of his own involving prime numbers.

His problem was endless, had no answer, but he finally forced the computer into an error—a mistake which the manufacturers finally verified and corrected.

Now, back in motorcycles for the past ten or twelve years, Tom is repairing bikes in the motorbike customizing and welding shop on Broadway. He has some hand tools, two cars, one of which runs, and a 90 c.c. bike.

1939 PACKARD

The car that won't run is a once-elegant Packard One-Twenty, nearly thirty years old, which he plans to restore. He starts the other car occassionally, admires its clean lines and then shuts it off because he views cars with mild distrust. It may be because this is the first year his driver's license permits him to drive one. Earlier licenses restricted him to motorcycles —he didn't object because he feels bikes are far safer than cars, anyway..

He's rock-solid positive about this point, and says the thought of driving a car 50 MPH is downright frightening. He's raced big bikes in the past, although he doesn't own one now, and regards them as exxciting but safe if properly handled.

Well, does he miss all that nice money he once earned as a computer programmer? Big smile, shake of the head.. Not one cent of it. He has not much now, not much then. Where's the difference?

Why did he leave the lab to work on bikes? He had to do something with his hands. Besides, he couldn't stand those four walls.

This figures, of course. He comes from a very long line of outdoor folk. He is, he says, a pureblood Sioux.
